

Written by Jeffrey L. Boney, Associate Editor
Wednesday, 06 February 2013 00:00

Tuesday, February 5, 2013 marked the anniversary of the weekly protests against police brutality by the Black Justice Tuesday Coalition (BJTC), a group that has protested every week in front of the Harris County Courthouse for two straight years demanding something be done about police brutality in the Greater Houston area.

One of the high-profile, police brutality incidents that became a major catalyst behind the protests, has also captured national attention. Emmy-nominated filmmaker, Keith Beauchamp, has produced a much-anticipated documentary, featuring racial profiling victim Robbie Tolan that will make its world premiere Wednesday, February 13 at 7 PM (CST) on the Investigation Discovery (ID) Network.

THE INJUSTICE FILES: HOOD OF SUSPICION

Keith Beauchamp is the Executive Producer and Host of The Injustice Files, which appears on the Investigation Discovery (ID) Network; a mystery-and-suspense network.

On his show, Beauchamp combs through records; interviews family members, witnesses and investigators; and pieces together the known facts of each case he takes on. Beauchamp attempts to interview individuals directly involved in the case, as well as potential suspects and individuals who may know who was responsible, sometimes even confronting them in their driveways after attempts to contact them for interviews prove unsuccessful.

UNMASKING INJUSTICE - Local Racial Profiling Victim, Robbie Tolan, Featured in Powerful Documentary

Written by Jeffrey L. Boney, Associate Editor

Wednesday, 06 February 2013 00:00

UNMASKING INJUSTICE - Local Racial Profiling Victim, Robbie Tolan, Featured in Powerful Documentary

Written by Jeffrey L. Boney, Associate Editor
Wednesday, 06 February 2013 00:00

