estimated 27,060 new cases of breast cancer and 6,080 deaths are expected to occur among African American women according to the American Cancer Society Facts & Figures 2013-2014. The incidence of breast cancer among women under 45 is higher for African American women compared to white women, however, the risk of breast cancer for all women increases with age. African American women are more likely to be diagnosed with larger tumors and more advanced stages of breast cancer despite a lower incidence rate. The five-year survival rate for African American women is 78%, as compared to 90% for white women.

The 2013 Honorary Walk Chair is the Honorable Congresswoman Sheila Jackson Lee. Elected officials from the greater Houston-area are also expected to be in attendance. Over 8,000 participants from Houston and around the nation are expected to walk in honor and in celebration of family and friends who survived breast cancer and those who are no longer among us.

“Four years ago, our National African American Breast Cancer 5K Walk/Run was launched to heighten breast cancer awareness in the African American community. Sisters Network is so thankful for the continued support and growth of this initiative. It is truly a powerful vision to see thousands of women and men walking together to help Sisters Network raise funds so we can assist breast survivors nationwide. We know how blessed and fortunate our organization is to be able to continue to thrive for 19 years, especially in today’s economy and also assist women financially and emotionally when they need it most. We couldn’t do it without the loyal support of our sponsors and the community who continue to believe in Sisters Network mission to Stop the Silence so African American women can beat the breast cancer odds,” said Karen E. Jackson, Founder/CEO, Sisters Network Inc.
